Attorney Jackson and Commissioner Shields, before whom the defendants have been taken for examination, been exposed. The law in reference to the lottery has been thoroughly expounded, and though there may be certain hands abundant on the prosecution of the defendants charged, yet they are not morally responsible—yet the law must be enforced, the result being at all the connivances of those who have hitherto managed the lotteries will eventually be thoroughly disclosed. Assistant District Attorney Jackson delivered yesterday a pretty clear exposition of the law bearing on the case of the lottery dealers who have been arrested for the non-payment of the special tax. The law upon this subject, though not exactly pacific to the characters which it intends to embrace, at least so far as concerns the present case, sets forth in paragraph 6 of section 7 of the revenue laws the following:

Every lottery ticket dealer shall pay $100. Every race association, jockey or corporation who shall make, sell or offer to sell lottery tickets of fractional parts thereof, or any token, medal, stamp, seal or other thing representing such a lottery ticket, or any fractional part thereof, or any policy of members in any lottery, or any subscription, or pre-arrangement, or agreement, or undertaking, or contract, time, and at an unusual rate of speed, on a heavy down grade, and consisted of one ladies' coach and two Pullman parlor cars, the "Gowanus" and "Union." As the train was rounding a sharp curve the iron gage was under the pressure, and the ladies' coach and the "Gowanus" and "Union" came off the track and fell over the embankment twenty feet high, and the whole train of cars. The accidents occurred about midnight, the 10th inst., on the Chicago and North Western, near Sioux City, who came along soon after on the train bound west from Chicago, say that while there were several persons killed, and many others more or less injured, no one was killed outright. A brakeman is known to be very badly, perhaps fatally injured, and a woman, who lives in one of the neighboring county of Sarpy, was taken to the Monongia nursing home, where all were cared for, so badly injured as to be unable to move. The wreck described as being a terrible one.

previous occasions to plan and lead a meeting which would be confined to native Parlane lands never should be exhibited in this cosmopolitan city of New York. Some of the brightest intellects of our race are here, and they will not permit their countries. It will always be remembered that Garrigue, Keen, Kemble, Forrest and Macready made their first appearances in this metropolis as actors of the foremost man of his time, William Shakespeare. That Mrs. Siddons, in England, and Charles Cushman, Jean Landier and Charles Kean in America, were men of noble and unimpaired character and dignity to the boards and the profession which they have elevated by their labors, is a fact which no one can deny. The same profession have often been the protectors of infamy, the pillars of age. Instances are numerous in which they have craved power up to careers of usefulness and honor and smoothed as well the path of the aged to the grave. The plaintiff here impressed me, as did Judge, gentleman, man of letters, and I am glad to say, a man whom I trust you will give him the same warm commendation that you would award to the discussion of any other laudable subject.

The jury found for the plaintiff $400 damages.

Coroner Keenan has held a consultation with Dr. Harris, of the Board of Health, in regard to the propriety of exhuming the body of Michael Gaille, a colored man, whose death three weeks ago, so much interested the community, and which is exciting the public mind to an unusual degree. Dr. Harris, after having the matter properly presented to him, and with the view of furthering the ends of justice, consented to the exhumation of the body of Michael Gaille. Coroner Keenan has issued an order to that effect and placed it in the hands of the Health Board for execution. The body will be exhumed from the Lutheran Cemetery, Williamsburg, and when taken up will be brought to the Morgue in this city for a post-mortem examination. The stomach and intestines, with such other of the internal organs as may be required, will be placed in charge of Professor Foreman or the chemist to the Board of Health, for their examination. The results of the analysis must necessarily ensue before the results of the analysis can be reached. In the meantime the charge of blackmailing the deceased by the late Dr. W. J. Gaille will be further investigated before Judge Logan.
